

National Grid Person Authorisation Training (Substation or Overhead Lines)

Course details

The full day course consists of classroom training followed by e-learning and assessment on underpinning Substation or Overhead Line knowledge, e-learning and assessment in relation to the dangers of Impressed Voltage and a practical health and safety Substation or Overhead line assessment. Individuals must bring their own PPE for the practical assessment.

The individual must pass both knowledge and practical parts of the course in order to be authorised as a National Grid Person and be registered on the Energy & Utility Skills Register against the National Grid Electricity Contractors Scheme.

Individuals are required to confirm that general health and safety awareness has been successfully undertaken prior to course attendance. Some examples include SHEA Power and courses affiliated to the Construction Skills Certificate Scheme (CSCS card) and the Construction Industry Training Board (CITB card).

National Grid Person Renewal (Substation or Overhead Lines)

Course details

The e-learning and e-assessment package is designed to refresh the individual in relation to relevant health and safety Substation knowledge. It is undertaken along with refresher e-learning on the dangers of Impressed Voltage.

Individuals must pass the assessments to renew their Person authorisation and be registered on the Energy & Utility Skills Register against the National Grid Electricity Contractors Scheme.

The Person Renewal e-learning package is only available to individuals with an in-date Person and BESC AME authorisation, at the time of booking and completing the e-learning and e-assessment package. Candidates have 28 days only, to sit the renewal from the date it is booked.

Where an individual's Person and/or BESC AME authorisation has expired, they must then take the full day face to face Person course at National Grid's Academy in Eakring.

When you buy the Person Renewal e-learning package, you will be sent an e-mail with an activation link. Please click on the activation link and follow the instructions in the e-mail.
